

Catalogue of census declarations

Supplement

Since its publication just over a decade ago, this book has played a large role in discussions of ancient demography, both in renewed debate about old problems and in the introduction of new topics. To do justice to this literature and see how far it might modify the views we set forth in the first edition of this book would mean rewriting its entire text. We do not judge that the time is ripe for such a wholesale reconsideration. This reprint edition does, however, offer the opportunity to make available to readers in convenient form the results of papyrological work over this decade.

The list of census declarations from Roman Egypt in the first edition of this book had been brought up to date as of 1 November 1993. This Supplement includes material known to us published after that date and before 31 July 2005, with the exception of the 63 households from the census register from an Upper Egyptian city published by us, with full presentation and analysis of the data, in P.Oxy. Census (Roger S. Bagnall, Bruce W. Frier, and Ian C. Rutherford, The Census Register P.Oxy. 984: The Reverse of Pindar's Paeans [Pap.Bru. 29, Brussels 1997]). In that publication we designated the city which the register concerns, which is not directly identified in the papyrus itself, as Ptolemais, although we registered the possibility that it was instead Lykopolis (p. 56). Additional arguments in favor of Lykopolis have been offered by O. Montevecchi in Aegyptus 78 (1998) 49-76 and Atti del V Convegno Nazionale di egittologia e Papirologia (Firenze 2000) 175-84, and that provenance has been adopted by the Heidelberger Gesamtverzeichnis. We do not reprint these households here.

The following supplement has three parts. In the first, we give a list of households identifiable in those declarations newly published since we closed our list; in the second part we give information about republications or reeditions of texts included in the Catalogue in the first edition; and in the third part we offer a list of minor corrections to the first edition. The task of creating this supplement was materially lightened by the extensive collections of references provided by Andrea Jördens first in her review in Bibliotheca Orientalis 54 (1997) 696-702 and subsequently in Laverna 12 (2001) 1-2 n. 2 and by Fritz Mitthof in CPR XXIII 6 introd. It should be stressed that the Supplement has somewhat more modest aims than the original Catalogue; in its present form it does not include stemmata, and the readings of the editors have not been systematically verified. Where plates or images are available, however, these are noted.

The history of the census in the Ptolemaic period is enormously illuminated by the book of Willy Clarysse and Dorothy J. Thompson, Counting the People (Cambridge University Press, forthcoming). The Ptolemaic records, unfortunately, do not give ages, limiting significantly their potential for demographic analysis. The record of a Roman citizen census declaration of A.D. 47/8, first published as PSI XI 1183 and republished by D. W. Rathbone as P.Thomas 6, is not included here because it does not belong to the Egyptian census properly speaking, as Rathbone shows.

We are grateful to those who have brought new material or corrections to our attention, and we will continue to appreciate such information in the future.

Discussion: The bottom is lost, but there may not be any persons missing, depending on whether females were present and declared. The editor notes parallels to SB XX 14440 (11-Ar-1) in proposing a date under Augustus.

HOUSEHOLD NO.: 117-Ap-10

Prov., Date: Tanyaithis (Apoll.), 1/7/119

Declarant: Harpokras s. Orseus

Free non-kin, slaves: None

Verif./photo: P.Yale inv. 281; BASP 34 (1997), pl. 5

Discussion: From a tomos synkollesimos. The lower right portion is preserved, missing the declaration and beginning of the list of individuals. Apart from the entry for the declarant, however, no individuals are lost, as a total of 4 is stated. Although a small sample, the declaration displays heavy age-rounding.

HOUSEHOLD NO.: 131-Ar-18

Source: P.Bodl. I 17.51-66

Prov., Date: Soknopaiou Nesos, 17/10/132

Declarant: Name not preserved

Family members: (1) NN (m.) [declarant], age lost
(2) Tanephremis d. Apynchis, wife of NN [no. 1], 60
(3) Thathres d. NN [no. 1] and Tanephremis [no. 2], 40
(4) Stotoetis s. Satabous (s. Stotoetis) and Thathres [no. 3], 22
(5) Stotoetis the younger s. Satabous (s. Stotoetis) and Thathres [no. 3], 1[.] (or 2[.])
(6) Ta[d. Satabous (s. Stotoetis) and Thathres [no. 3], 5
(7) Apynchis d. Satabous (s. Stotoetis) and Thathres [no. 3], age not read (< 5)
(8) Stotoetis s. Pabous, 30? or 1?
(9) Stotoetis the elder, age lost (13?)
(10) Thaesis d. Stotoetis, 10 (or 1[.])

Free non-kin, slaves: None (?)

Verif./photo: Bodleian MS Gr. class. c. 99 (P), col. V; Plate 15 in edition; seen 24.ix.2004

Discussion: Part of a tomos synkollesimos; only the lower part is preserved. The nature of the last three entries is very uncertain, and the ages are based on the most exiguous of traces. Stotoetis son of Pabous (no. 8) could be a final child of Thathres, but by a different husband; in that case the age is probably 1. Stotoetis the elder (no. 9) and Thaesis d. of Stotoetis (no. 10) could be free non-kin or children of Stotoetis the elder (no. 4, presumably). The editor's readings in line 61 are probably not correct.

Family members: (1) Gaius Sempronius Diogenes [declarant], spurius, s. Sempronia Akousarion, age lost
(2) Sempronia Akousarion, mother of Gaius Sempronius Diogenes [declarant], 57

Free non-kin: None

Slaves: (1) Kreskes (Crescens), slave of Sempronia Akousarion (no. 2), age lost
(2) Kallistos, offspring of Hediste (slave no. 4), slave of Sempronia Akousarion (no. 2), age omitted
(3) Heron, offspring of Hediste (slave no. 4), slave of Sempronia Akousarion (no. 2), 9
(4) Hediste, slave of Sempronia Akousarion (no. 2), mother of Kallistos and Heron, age lost
(5) Serapias, offspring of Hediste (slave no. 4), slave of Sempronia Akousarion, age not given
(6) Thermoutharion alias Arsinoe, offspring of Hediste (slave no. 4), slave of Sempronia Akousarion, age not given

Verif./photo: P.Mich.inv. 5806; Tafel XVIb in ZPE 98 (1993); photograph

Discussion: This is a copy from the register of declarations. The slaves were in the main only partly owned by Sempronia Akousarion and are said to have been registered in another declaration. The house is owned by Sempronia Akousarion.

HOUSEHOLD NO.: 131-Oa-1

Prov., Date: Mesobe (Great Oasis), 15/8/132

Declarant: Tithoes s. Psenamounis (s. Psais) and Tasechthis (d. Horos)

Family members: (1) Tithoes [declarant] s. Psenamounis (s. Psais) and Tasechthis (d. Horos), 39
(2) ---s d. Tithoes [declarant] and Talaeus (d. Horos), 3
(3) Sentithoes (?) d. Tithoes [declarant] and Talaeus (d. Horos) (no. 4), sister of no. 2, [2]
(4) Talaeus d. Horos (s. Patchalmis) and Tapsais, wife of Tithoes [declarant], 36

Free non-kin, slaves: None

Verif./photo: From excavations at Kellis, kept in magazine of Dakhleh Oasis Project; seen 1/12/1999.

Discussion: Only the bottom right part is preserved. The household is in part reconstructed on the basis of 145-Oa-2, found with this declaration and representing the same family. The entry for the declarant is lost in the declaration from 131, along with any son or sons who may have been listed before the daughters. Mesobe was a village of the Dakhleh Oasis, probably east of Kellis, where the family actually lived.

(3) Sentithoes (?) d. Tithoes [declarant] and Talaeus (d. Horos) (no. 4), sister of no. 2, spinner, 16

(4) Talaeus d. Horos (s. Patchalmis) and Tapsais, wife of Tithoes [declarant], 50

Free non-kin, slaves: ---ous, slave of Talaeus (no. 4), 6

Verif./photo: From excavations at Kellis, kept in magazine of Dakhleh Oasis Project; seen 1/12/1999.

Discussion: See 131-Oa-1 for the same household 14 years earlier and for discussion of the provenance. Nos. 2 and 3 are apparently the first women to be given an occupational designation in a census declaration.

Discussion: Extract from a census declaration. The text is badly preserved and some aspects of household structure cannot be recovered. The portion listing Sambas, the declarant, is not readable, but he is referred to in line 19 as “aforementioned.” Family members 13 and 14 may be listed as lodgers, but the reading of the word is not clear.

Free non-kin, slaves: None.

Discussion: Complete in two somewhat different versions, evidently a draft (editor). The two daughters are described as “from both [sc. parents],” but no father is in fact mentioned. The drafts seem not yet to have got the formula right.

(2) NN, age lost
(3) Dikaioyne, age lostVerif./photo: P.Prag. Gr. II 32; Tav. VII in editionDiscussion: Part of a tomos synkollesimos. Strips are lost at left and at right. The property is stated to belong to the declarant and his sisters, one of them Theonis alias Koues, a minor. The damage to line 5 has taken the name of the other property-owning sister, who must be the D.ition of line 9. Unlike Theonis, she is not said to be a minor. The name of Theonis is lost in line 10, but its restoration seems unavoidable, because the sisters declared are described as previously mentioned. The declaration of slaves begins with two individuals whose names are lost, followed by Dikaiosyne. After that point the text continues for another few lines to mention names, but the remains were too scanty to allow the editor to reconstruct the text.

II. Re-editions and Reprints of Texts Used in the First Edition

Apart from these full reprints or reditions of texts, volumes 9-11 of the BL have appeared since 1993. These should be consulted for smaller corrections to published texts used in the first edition. Except as noted, these reprints of the texts do not affect the data reported.

131-Ar-11	SB XXII 15336. R. Smolders, ZPE 148 (2004) 239-40, identifies the declarant's former wife as Didymarion d. Apion, known from the archive of the descendants of Aphrodisios; he suggests that she was deceased rather than divorced at the time of this declaration, but the date of her death is not certain to have fallen before 133.

159-Ar-5	D. C. Barker, Akten XXI , 61-63, offers a different restoration of lines 3-4, with shorter restorations and eliminating the co-resident ex-wife of the declarant. We do not accept his restoration.

J. Straus, L'achat et la vente des esclaves dans l'Égypte romaine (München-Leipzig 2004) 13 proposes that instead of the slave Νίκην the text should read [κτ]ητ[ικ]ήν, referring to Helike, thus reducing by one the number of slaves declared.

- 173-Ar-2 D. C. Barker, Akten XXI, 64-65, attempts a restoration of what the scribe should have written, suggesting that the divorced wife, sister on his mother's side, Stotoetis, is still a member of the household. This is possible, but the evidence is inconclusive. Note that Barker misprints the second digit of her putative age (which is 26 on his reconstruction).

age not given

Free non-kin: None

Slaves: (1) Tourbon, slave of Aur. Didyme [declarant], 14
(2) Aniketos the younger, 14

Discussion: Broken at top and bottom, slight damage at left and lower right. More lost at right than when first published by Wessely in SPP II, p. 31. This is a supplementary declaration to the strategos and basilikos grammateus, stating that the previous declaration omitted through ignorance the ages of the slaves declared as part of her household. The age of the second is said to be the same as that of the first, and he was 14 according to Wessely's text of a part of the papyrus now lost. The declarant does not repeat the information given earlier about herself and any other family members, nor name the latter.
